Francois Coetzee

Purpose Coach

Pretoria

Summary

Francois Coetzee holds a B. Sc degree from the University of the Northwest (Formerly Potchefstroom University for CHE). He has been active in the enterprise architecture, information technology and consulting industries working in the banking, government, insurance, health, retail, telecommunication, manufacturing and IT services sectors.

He is an experienced trainer, facilitator, and coach having worked in and with teams across all layers of enterprises, from front-line workers to senior leaders in the executive suite.

Francois is an NLP/HNLP accredited trainer and coach, an ICF (International Coaching Federation) accredited coach, and an accredited trainer of SFM: Conscious Leadership (Success Factor Modelling) with the Dilts Strategy Group.

He has delivered NLP and other leadership development training courses to delegates from top corporate companies from South Africa as well as international companies.

His coaching expertise extends to assignments with senior leaders in government and business.

He is a popular speaker on the international creative thinking conference circuit exploring topics related to understanding and solving unique corporate and personal challenges through innovative solutions using coaching techniques, creative thinking, creative problem solving and technology applications.

His speaking engagements included ACRE (South Africa), Mindcamp (Canada), New Zealand Creativity Conference, and The Next Idea Retreat (USA). Most recently he was invited to speak at the United Nation's 2020 World Creativity and Innovation Week, an international event that celebrates creativity on a global basis.
